FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

"Jesus came and stood among them"

John 20:19

St Ignatius Loyola asked people that make the Spiritual Exercises "to share in the joy and peace of the risen Christ. This joy, like any grace we pray for, is a gift from God; we cannot earn or force it. We simply try to be open to receiving Easter joy by contemplating Christ as he shares the joy of the Resurrection with others". You can imagine the great consolation of Jesus' disciples to see their Master has not only come to life but returns to stand in the middle of them as we are told in the Gospel of John.

This consolation is greater when the Risen Lord three times greets them and gives them His peace. It is worth noticing that this gift of peace is not a simple greeting but a wish that comes from the One that lives forever. The first reading introduces us to the early Church when it beautifully explains that the believers "had everything in common." They knew that if everybody shared, none would be in need. That is why our faith in the Risen Christ leads us to share with others and it must bring peace to each of our brothers and sisters in the Church today.

In this Octave of Easter we can say that our God is "the God of Life." All Scripture is full of references to the Spirit of God. The Spirit of the Risen Jesus is the same Spirit that breathed life into the human person first created out of the clay of the earth. We are now all called to be disciples of Jesus receiving this Spirit of Life. "Here, in Jesus' first appearance to the disciples after the resurrection, he breathes on them and gives them the Holy Spirit. It is a re-creation of sorts". The breath of life creates the community of believers because "whoever believes that Jesus is the Christ is born of God" (1 John 5: 1). The challenge therefore is to be witness of God of life in the way we treat each other with the love and mercy of Christ Resurrected.

A contemporary theologian says that "God is joy, God is hope, God is courage". Today we can be assured that it is only through the resurrection of Jesus that God is manifested in the joy, hope and life for us all. His resurrection helps us to persevere so that all may have life and peace. It also creates the Church of Jesus, that is, the community of men and women of goodwill.

Today when we celebrate the Divine Mercy, let us remember the abundant mercy of God toward men and women of all time. Jesus preached forgiveness in his journey through Galilee and so did his first disciples. Now he tells his disciples; "Receive the Holy Spirit. Whose sins you forgive are forgiven them." May our acts of mercy to our brothers and sisters mirror God's mercy to us and enable to become instruments of his peace.
